Marine Board visits COST

Marine Board Executive Secretary, Dr Niamh Connolly, joined the COST Seminar this week. She presented the organisation's activities and talked about major trends, opportunities and challenges for actors in European marine sciences today. The Marine Board is a European forum for marine science policy, acting as a focal point for dialogue in this sector. Science Officer for the ESSEM Domain, Carine Petit, added to discussions when she presented COST Actions related to marine activities and the environment. An active questions and answers session followed the presentation.
