A CLOSE LOOK AT LEADERSHIP POSITIONS

■ Women ■ Men // Younger researchers

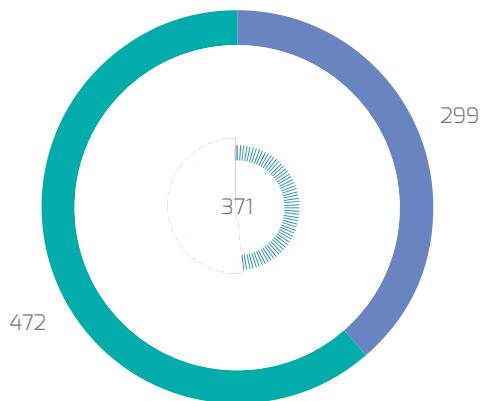

“One must not underestimate the benefits of putting active researchers together for a few days. Magic happens. (...) I can only imagine what such an Action might mean to people with less fortunate backgrounds, it’s almost like becoming a faculty member at a top university.”

Dr László Á. Kóczy, Associate Professor, Senior Research Fellow, Óbuda University, Keleti Faculty of Economics, Budapest

“In our COST Action we have managed to build a network of colleagues who are always available to help you, not just within the framework of COST but beyond that. I never imagined I would meet and work with such amazing and devoted people. I feel lucky to have been a part of this Action.”

Evelin Kiefer, Lab Manager, Grastyán Translational Research Centre,

MAKING THE HEADLINES

The screenshot shows the hvg.hu website interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with the site logo and various menu items. The main content area features a large image of a satellite in space, with the headline "Újabb magyar tagja lett a Nemzetközi Asztronautikai Akadémiának" (Another Hungarian member of the International Astronautical Academy). Below the headline, the article text states that László Bacsárdi, the president of MANT, has been elected as a corresponding member of the IAA. A quote from the article reads: "Ő az első műegyetemi oktató, aki tagja lett a Nemzetközi Asztronautikai Akadémiának, egyben az egyik legfiatalabb levelező tag" (He is the first university lecturer to become a member of the International Astronautical Academy, and also one of the youngest corresponding members). To the right, there are several smaller news snippets, including one about NASA's LRO mission and another about Facebook's QAnon group.
